Mobius rates are comparable for small carries but the very large carries have thousands of customers; this allows the large carries opportunities for a bit lower rates. We work diligently to keep our prices down and affordable for our customers.

Mobius Communications is a participant in the Federal Lifeline Program. This program will reduce the broadband cost of our qualifying residential customers by $9.25/month to residents who participate in programs such as SNAP, Medicare, SSI, Federal Public Housing, Veteran/Survivor Pensions, or are at 135% or below the poverty level.

Mobius Communications is also a participant in the temporary Federal Emergency Broadband Benefit Program (EBBP). The program can reduce the broadband cost for qualifying residential customers by a current broadband service discount up to $50/month. The FCC is offering this temporary program to help families and households struggling to afford Broadband Internet service during the COVID-19 pandemic and these uncertain times.

With participation in both the Lifeline and EBBP programs, all residents in the "Mobius Bridge Grant Box Butte" service area, including even the most disadvantaged, will find a reliable broadband solution to meet their needs.

Mobius offers retail rates on our Website, inserts for our bills, newspaper ads, door knockers and all prices are available in our office when customers come in and inquire about our services and rates.

We do not have any usage caps, early termination fees, or anything to lock customers into a particular plan or term.

We only provide services in western Nebraska and the rates are consistent.

Keystone pipeline opponents hail end to eminent domain effort

JANICY GAARDER
Staff Writer

Opponents of the wscuttled Keystone pipeline hailed an agreement between Canadian company and Nebraska land owners to terminate the company's efforts to condemn their land. On Monday, a Madison County District Court judge accepted an agreement between TC Energy Corp and the Johnson and Herick families to rescind condemnation proceedings. In June, TC Energy Corp, formerly TransCanada, said it was ending its decades-long effort to build a crude oil pipeline from Alberta to Nebraska. From there, the pipeline would connect to a system that reached the Gulf Coast. The company announced its decision after President Joe Biden in January revoked a necessary permit. Jane Kleeb founder of Bold Nebraska, credited the work of everyday Nebraskans with stopping the pipeline. "Land justice happened only because of the hard work of citizens, grassroots organizing, and a legal team who believed the land was worth protecting," she said. Mark Hefflinger, also with Bold Nebraska, said about 60 landowners were in a situation similar to the Herick and Johnson families

He said pipeline opponents hope that TC Energy will reach similar agreements with the other families. Additionally, pipeline opponents want to see easements granted to TC Energy be revoked so that they can't be transferred to another company. TC Energy declined to comment on how it would handle additional terminations of condemnation proceedings or any cancellation of voluntary easements. "It would be inappropriate to speak to matters before the courts," the company said in a written statement. It did note that the project has been canceled
